

XM Radio has been one of the best electronic inventions to come along. The service it provides are ones not easily obtained from the "over the air" products. Since I pay a monthly service fee, no one should be allowed to rule what they services they provide. The FCC should immediately stop any thoughts of passing NAB's petition 04-160 which will try and limit ANYTHING on satellite radio. This is no different than cable or satellite. They don't have to adhere to the same rules that free "over the air" stations have to. Stop this nonsense.
